To the Library Board
Urbana Free Library
Urbana, Illinois

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of the Urbana Free Library as of and for the year ended June 30, 2016, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered its internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing our auditing procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinions on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of its internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of its internal control.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraph and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and, therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses and others that we consider to be a significant deficiency.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency or combination of deficiencies in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the entity's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. We consider the following deficiencies in the Library's internal control to be material weaknesses:

- > External Financial Reporting
- > Segregation of Duties – Payroll and Cash Disbursements

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following deficiencies in the Library's internal control to be significant deficiencies:

- > Segregation of Duties – Journal Entries
- > Information Technology Control Environment

The Urbana Free Library's written responses to the significant deficiencies and material weaknesses identified in our audit has not been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements and, accordingly, we express no opinion on it.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of management, the Library Board, and others within the organization and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.

EXTERNAL FINANCIAL REPORTING

Internal controls encompass all external financial reporting. Like most libraries in Illinois, the Library does not maintain an external financial reporting department or function, but relies on its audit firm for this purpose. However, the external auditor is, by definition, external to the Library and cannot be a part of the Library's internal control structure since management is responsible for the fair presentation of the financial statements. This includes drafting the individual fund statements, making conversion entries, drafting the government-wide statements, and preparing note disclosures. Without the assistance of the audit firm, it is unlikely that the Library would be able to prepare financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Common attributes of a properly designed system of internal control over financial reporting include:

- > Adequate staffing to prepare financial reports at the end of the year.
- > Training to ensure staff is knowledgeable to perform all financial reporting functions.
- > Identification and correction of material misstatements during the normal course of duties.
- > Preparation of complete and accurate financial statements including notes to the financial statements.
- > Review of financial reports by an individual who is not the preparer for completeness and accuracy.

While this is defined as a material weakness by accounting standards, it may not be practical or cost beneficial for the Library to mitigate this weakness. New accounting literature continues to be added at an astonishing pace and comes from a variety of sources. Employing an individual who remains current on the ever changing accounting and reporting standards can add significant financial cost to your internal control process. As such, the Library may choose to accept this risk as most libraries in this state have done.

During the course of the audit, we made certain adjustments to the Library's financial information to properly present the Library's financial information. In our opinion, had these adjustments not been made, the financial results of certain funds within the Library's financial statements would have been materially misstated. These entries have been brought to the attention of management.

Management Response: Current staffing levels are not adequate to prepare financial reports at the end of each year. Additional training for the Office Manager, the Executive Director, and other appropriate staff who work with Finance would be beneficial and we will evaluate training opportunities, especially those specific to government accounting, which is provided by the Government Finance Officers Association. Travel and Training Funds are currently available. The Library will continue to rely on Baker Tilly to prepare the financial statements because of the significant effort involved in that work. It may be appropriate to review that decision in the future, after a new financial system has been implemented and financial processes have been streamlined.

SEGREGATION OF DUTIES – PAYROLL AND CASH DISBURSEMENTS

A cornerstone of effective internal control is the existence of policies to support segregation of duties; this involves separation of the initiation, execution, approval and recording responsibilities for transactions. We noted a deficiency related to proper segregation of duties around the payroll and cash disbursement processes.

Cash Disbursements

- > The same individual is responsible for initiating the purchase of office supplies, processing invoices, and generating checks. One individual having such control over the cash disbursement process presents a significant risk. Although the Library has attempted to implement certain compensating controls to mitigate the risks resulting from the lack of segregation of duties, we noted that these controls cannot be deemed effective as they can be circumvented. We recommend that the Library segregate responsibilities within the cash disbursement process to the greatest extent possible.

Payroll

- > The same individual is responsible for changing pay rates and benefits, updating time records for hourly employees, processing payroll, and printing, signing and distributing checks. This presents a segregation of duties concern as one individual has significant control over the entire payroll cycle. In an ideal control environment, the duties of entering employee information and time reporting would be separate from the person responsible for processing payroll. These employees would also not have access to print, sign, or distribute payroll checks. We recommend segregating these responsibilities among multiple employees and limit access within the system such that segregated responsibilities could not be circumvented.
- > We noted there was no review of payroll before or after it has been processed. Each payroll run should be reviewed by someone not involved in the payroll preparation process. We recommend that the review of payroll be completed before payroll is processed and once again before distribution of checks. Reviews should focus on rate changes and new employees and compare actual amounts to budget expectations. Reviews should be documented through signature or initial of the reviewer.

The absence of these controls could result in errors to financial data or could allow the misappropriation of Library assets to be concealed. We noted that the Library implemented new procedures around the payroll process in an effort to mitigate risks associated with the lack of segregation of duties. Beginning in June 2016, the Executive Director began reviewing payroll registers and documenting approval of the registers through signature and dating. This control greatly mitigates the risk of material misstatement and misappropriation of City assets; however, as the control was only in place for one month in the fiscal year, the risks identified above were not sufficiently mitigated throughout the year to reduce the level of finding, requiring the item to continue to be presented as a material weakness.

Management Response: The Library contracts with the City for access to the Payroll and Financial system, as well as support of the system. Access to the Payroll and Financial system has been expanded to two stations: One at the Office Manager's desk and one at the Executive Director's Desk. A new financial management system will provide different access to appropriate employees, addressing concerns mentioned. The Executive Director or another Administrator checks invoices before being the second person to stamp checks. In addition, a file of the first and last check cut for bills and payroll-related checks has been created. The person stamping checks signs off that the first check cut this payment cycle is the next one after the last check cut the last payment cycle. This process has been in place for around a year.

Both the Executive Director and the Assistant Manager of Circulation have been trained to review payroll and then be the person to “finalize” payroll. A new Administration Clerk position has been created (expected start date in late January or early February 2017), and part of the job will be to add an extra layer of oversight into the beginning of the payroll review process. We will continue to evaluate and implement workflow shifts. The Library will continue to work with the City as it reviews security settings in the current financial system and makes changes to limit access to specific functions for its own purposes, consistent with appropriate segregation of duties. The Library will also evaluate implementation of the report that City Finance staff and IT staff will develop to incorporate all relevant review items mentioned in the City’s audit. Additional controls related to changes in pay rates and benefits should be part of a new financial management system and Library staff participated in the selection process.

Given the size of the organization and the limited number of staff, The Library does utilize a number of back-end controls. The Library will review work assignments and will determine whether printing, signing and distributing payroll checks can be assigned to another employee. Currently, payroll checks cut to individuals are stamped by two individuals and the Executive Director or the Assistant Manager of Circulation signs and dates the sheet which matches the check to the payroll amount. A process for payroll review of all employees will be created, including a review of all exceptions to the budget and changes to pay rates. Except for the turn of the fiscal year, employee rates do not change often, and are reviewed and documented.

Disbursements are and have been available near the top of the Library’s Your Right to Know webpage <http://urbanafreelibrary.org/your-right-know>.

SEGREGATION OF DUTIES – JOURNAL ENTRIES

A cornerstone of effective internal control is the existence of policies to support segregation of duties; this involves separation of the initiation, execution, approval and recording responsibilities for transactions. We noted deficiencies related to proper segregation of duties around the journal entries process.

Journal Entries

- > The same individual responsible for all aspects of the payroll process is also the only person able to post entries to the Library's general ledger system. Although journal entries may be prepared by someone other than the individual posting them and an independent review by someone who did not prepare or post the entries may occur, individuals have access to both prepare and post entries and there is no documentation of the independent review. We recommend that the independent review of journal entries be documented and formalized through signature or initials of the reviewer.

The absence of these controls could result in errors to financial data or could allow the misappropriation of Library assets to be concealed. We noted that the risks associated with this deficiency were mitigated by compensating controls implemented during the year. Specifically, the Office Manager sends an e-mail to all Department Heads bi-weekly, letting them know that updated Budget & Forecast and Detailed Trial Balances are available for them to view on the Urbana Free Library website. This information would include any entries that were posted within that two week period. Additionally, the Executive Director reviews Library-wide budgetary comparison schedules. Placing reliance on this control mitigates the risk of material misstatement and misappropriation of Library assets as the multiple layers of financial information review would likely identify material errors or fraud.

Management Response: Independent review can be formalized. The Executive Director has been printing and signing a copy of the Budget & Forecast. Once a month, at an Admin Team meeting, the Administrative Team acknowledges that their budget lines are in order (or why they are not in order) and this is included in the minutes, which are available to all staff.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY CONTROL ENVIRONMENT

An effective internal control system should include controls over the Library's information technology. These controls would provide the appropriate security for the Library's financial information to prevent unauthorized access or date loss. As the Library did not have sufficient controls in place over information technology, we are required to report this significant deficiency. Controls over information technology should include the following:

- > A formal change management policy covering procedures around program updates, system changes, and ongoing maintenance. Additionally, changes should be authorized, documented, and tested before being placed into operation.
- > Review of access to the financial accounting systems completed at least once a year by management to ensure that user access is appropriate for each individual's job responsibilities. Documentation of these periodic reviews should be retained.
- > Restorations of backups on a proactive, periodic basis to ensure effectiveness of existing procedures.

In addition to the weaknesses in the Library's information technology controls noted above, the Library relies upon the expertise of a single City employee to maintain the custom-built general ledger software. This individual has unlimited access to the system, including the ability to alter source coding and financial databases. With no other individuals at the City or Library possessing the skills to maintain the general ledger system, the Library would have no general ledger support if the individual were to cease employment with the City. Such reliance on one individual to maintain the Library's financial data presents a significant risk to the Library's ability to maintain accurate and timely financial records. If possible, multiple individuals should be trained to maintain the general ledger software in case of emergency. We also recommend the ability to alter programming code and financial databases are completely restricted or heavily monitored.

Management Response: IT staff has agreed to review and consider a policy on change management. However, benefits are reduced by the lack of documentation on the status quo. Ultimately, this concern will be best addressed by using a standardized financial management system, in which changes are controlled by an outside vendor. Staff has made a decision on a financial management system to replace the current custom-built system, and expects to finalize an agreement in the very near future.

IT staff has implemented complex password rules for the financial management system and other applications on the Power7 computer.

Review of access rights to the financial management system is complicated by the complicated nature of controls over access and has not been completed, although some adjustments have been made.

A secondary machine has been readied as a backup for the Power7 computer. The backup process has been automated and the fail-over process has been tested. Remaining tasks include moving the secondary machine off site so that conditions, such as a sustained power outage or natural disaster, affecting the current machine will be unlikely to affect the secondary machine.

OTHER COMMUNICATIONS TO THOSE CHARGED WITH GOVERNANCE

TWO WAY COMMUNICATION REGARDING YOUR AUDIT

As part of our audit of your financial statements, we are providing communications to you throughout the audit process. Auditing requirements provide for two-way communication and are important in assisting the auditor and you with more information relevant to the audit.

As this past audit is concluded, we use what we have learned to begin the planning process for next year's audit. It is important that you understand the following points about the scope and timing of our next audit:

- a. We address the significant risks of material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, through our detailed audit procedures.
- b. We will obtain an understanding of the five components of internal control sufficient to assess the risk of material misstatement of the financial statements whether due to error or fraud, and to design the nature, timing, and extent of further audit procedures. We will obtain a sufficient understanding by performing risk assessment procedures to evaluate the design of controls relevant to an audit of financial statements and to determine whether they have been implemented. We will use such knowledge to:
 - > Identify types of potential misstatements.
 - > Consider factors that affect the risks of material misstatement.
 - > Design tests of controls, when applicable, and substantive procedures.

We will not express an opinion on the effectiveness of internal control over financial reporting or compliance with laws, regulations, and provisions of contracts or grant programs.

- c. The concept of materiality recognizes that some matters, either individually or in the aggregate, are important for fair presentation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles while other matters are not important. In performing the audit, we are concerned with matters that, either individually or in the aggregate, could be material to the financial statements. Our responsibility is to plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance that material misstatements, whether caused by errors or fraud, are detected.

We are very interested in your views regarding certain matters. Those matters are listed here:

- a. We typically will communicate with your top level of management unless you tell us otherwise.
- b. We understand that the Library Board has the responsibility to oversee the strategic direction of your organization, as well as the overall accountability of the entity. Management has the responsibility for achieving the objectives of the entity.
- c. We need to know your views about your organization's objectives and strategies, and the related business risks that may result in material misstatements.
- d. Which matters do you consider warrant particular attention during the audit, and are there any areas where you request additional procedures to be undertaken?
- e. Have you had any significant communications with regulators or grantor agencies?
- f. Are there other matters that you believe are relevant to the audit of the financial statements?

Also, is there anything that we need to know about the attitudes, awareness, and actions of the Library concerning:

- a. The Library's internal control and its importance in the entity, including how those charged with governance oversee the effectiveness of internal control?
- b. The detection or the possibility of fraud?

We also need to know if you have taken actions in response to developments in financial reporting, laws, accounting standards, governance practices, or other related matters, or in response to previous communications with us.

With regard to the timing of our audit, here is some general information. If necessary, we may do preliminary financial audit work during the months of May or June and sometimes early July. Our final financial fieldwork, including the completion of single audit fieldwork, is scheduled during the fall to best coincide with your readiness and report deadlines. After fieldwork, we wrap up our financial audit procedures at our office and may issue drafts of our report for your review. Final copies of our report and other communications are issued after approval by your staff. This is typically 8-12 weeks after final fieldwork, but may vary depending on a number of factors.

Keep in mind that while this communication may assist us with planning the scope and timing of the audit, it does not change the auditor's sole responsibility to determine the overall audit strategy and the audit plan, including the nature, timing, and extent of procedures necessary to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence.

We realize that you may have questions on what this all means, or wish to provide other feedback. We welcome the opportunity to hear from you.

To the Library Board
Urbana Free Library
Urbana, Illinois

Thank you for using Baker Tilly Virchow Krause, LLP as your auditor.

We have completed our audit of the financial statements of Urbana Free Library for the year ended June 30, 2016, and have issued our report thereon dated December 9, 2016. This letter presents communications required by our professional standards.

OUR RESPONSIBILITY UNDER AUDITING STANDARDS GENERALLY ACCEPTED IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

The objective of a financial statement audit is the expression of an opinion on the financial statements. We conducted the audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. These standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain reasonable, rather than absolute, assurance about whether the financial statements prepared by management with your oversight are free of material misstatement, whether caused by error or fraud. Our audit included examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. Our audit does not relieve management or the Board of their responsibilities.

As part of the audit we obtained an understanding of the entity and its environment, including internal control, sufficient to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements and to design the nature, timing and extent of further audit procedures. The audit was not designed to provide assurance on internal control or to identify deficiencies in internal control.

OTHER INFORMATION IN DOCUMENTS CONTAINING AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Our responsibility does not extend beyond the audited financial statements identified in this report. We do not have any obligation to and have not performed any procedures to corroborate other information contained in client prepared documents, such as official statements related to debt issues.

PLANNED SCOPE AND TIMING OF THE AUDIT

We performed the audit according to the planned scope and timing previously communicated to you in our letter about planning matters dated December 23, 2015.

QUALITATIVE ASPECTS OF THE ENTITY'S SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING PRACTICES

Accounting Policies

Management is responsible for the selection and use of appropriate accounting policies. In accordance with the terms of our engagement letter, we will advise management about the appropriateness of accounting policies and their application. The significant accounting policies used by the Urbana Free Library are described in Note I to the financial statements.

We noted no transactions entered into by the Urbana Free Library during the year that were both significant and unusual, and of which, under professional standards, we are required to inform you, or transactions for which there is a lack of authoritative guidance or consensus.

Accounting Estimates

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the financial statements prepared by management and are based on management's knowledge and experience about past and current events and assumptions about future events. Certain accounting estimates are particularly sensitive because of their significance to the financial statements and because of the possibility that future events affecting them may differ significantly from those expected. The most sensitive estimates affecting the financial statements were:

- Depreciation expense
- Other post-employment benefit obligation

We evaluated the key factors and assumptions used to develop these estimates in determining that they are reasonable in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

Financial Statement Disclosures

The disclosures in the financial statements are neutral, consistent, and clear.

DIFFICULTIES ENCOUNTERED IN PERFORMING THE AUDIT

We encountered no significant difficulties in dealing with management in performing our audit.

CORRECTED AND UNCORRECTED MISSTATEMENTS

Professional standards require us to accumulate all known and likely misstatements identified during the audit, other than those that are trivial, and communicate them to the appropriate level of management.

During the audit, we identified material adjustments to the Library's financial information which were required to properly present the Library's financial results. The adjustments included the following:

- > Adjustment to properly present beginning fund balances

Other adjustments identified during the audit were deemed, individually and in aggregate, to be immaterial to the financial statements, but were included in the financial statements. These entries have been furnished to management.

In addition, we prepared GASB No. 34 conversion entries which are summarized in the "Reconciliation of the Balance Sheet of Governmental Funds to the Statement of Net Position" and the "Reconciliation of the Statement of Revenues, Expenditures, and Changes in Fund Balances of Governmental Funds to the Statement of Activities" in the financial statements.

To the Library Board
Urbana Free Library

A summary of uncorrected financial statement misstatements follows this required communication. Management has determined that their effects are immaterial, both individually and in the aggregate, to the financial statements taken as a whole.

DISAGREEMENTS WITH MANAGEMENT

For purposes of this letter, professional standards define a disagreement with management as a matter, whether or not resolved to our satisfaction, concerning a financial accounting, reporting, or auditing matter that could be significant to the financial statements or the auditor's report. We are pleased to report that no such disagreements arose during the course of our audit.

CONSULTATIONS WITH OTHER INDEPENDENT ACCOUNTANTS

In some cases, management may decide to consult with other accountants about auditing and accounting matters. If a consultation involves application of an accounting principle to the governmental unit's financial statements or a determination of the type of auditors' opinion that may be expressed on those statements, our professional standards require the consulting accountant to check with us to determine that the consultant has all the relevant facts. To our knowledge, there were no such consultations with other accountants.

MANAGEMENT REPRESENTATIONS

We have requested certain representations from management that are included in the management representation letter. This letter follows this required communication.

INDEPENDENCE

We are not aware of any relationships between Baker Tilly Virchow Krause, LLP and the Urbana Free Library that, in our professional judgment, may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence.

Relating to our audit of the financial statements of the Urbana Free Library for the year ended June 30, 2016, Baker Tilly Virchow Krause, LLP hereby confirms that we are, in our professional judgment, independent with respect to the Urbana Free Library in accordance with the Code of Professional Conduct issued by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. We provided no services to the Urbana Free Library other than audit services provided in connection with the audit of the current year's financial statements and non-audit services which in our judgment do not impair our independence.

- > Financial statement preparation
- > Adjusting journal entries

None of these non-audit services constitute an audit under generally accepted auditing standards.

OTHER AUDIT FINDINGS OR ISSUES

We generally discuss a variety of matters, including the application of accounting principles and auditing standards, with management each year prior to retention as the Urbana Free Library's auditors. However, these discussions occurred in the normal course of our professional relationship and our responses were not a condition to our retention.

To the Library Board
Urbana Free Library

OTHER MATTERS

We applied certain limited procedures to the required supplementary information (RSI) that supplements the basic financial statements. Our procedures consisted of inquiries of management regarding the methods of preparing the information and comparing the information for consistency with management's responses to our inquiries, the basic financial statements, and other knowledge we obtained during our audit of the basic financial statements. We did not audit the RSI and do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on the RSI.

With respect to the supplementary information accompanying the financial statements, we made certain inquiries of management and evaluated the form, content, and methods of preparing the information to determine that the information complies with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the method of preparing it has not changed from the prior period, and the information is appropriate and complete in relation to our audit of the financial statements. We compared and reconciled the supplementary information to the underlying accounting records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves.

This information is intended solely for the use of the Library Board and management and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.

We welcome the opportunity to discuss the information included in this letter and any other matters. Thank you for allowing us to serve you.

Dear Baker Tilly Virchow Krause, LLP:

We are providing this letter in connection with your audit of the financial statements of the Urbana Free Library as of June 30, 2016 and for the year then ended for the purpose of expressing an opinion as to whether the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the respective financial position of the governmental activities, the discretely presented component unit, the major fund, and aggregate remaining fund information of the Urbana Free Library and the respective changes in financial position in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. We confirm that we are responsible for the fair presentation of the previously mentioned financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. We are also responsible for adopting sound accounting policies, establishing and maintaining internal control over financial reporting, and preventing and detecting fraud.

Certain representations in this letter are described as being limited to matters that are material. Items are considered material, regardless of size, if they involve an omission or misstatement of accounting information that, in the light of surrounding circumstances, makes it probable that the judgment of a reasonable person relying on the information would be changed or influenced by the omission or misstatement.
